Vestern State.

The territorial census of 1898 reported a seculation of $11,100, and this will no could be increment by the census of 1900 to at least 400,000. The return of taxable property for 1898 was $49,000,000. There is $15,700 school detricts, such with its choolhouse, and the number of children 6 school age is 90,885. The territory has its university, its agricultural and mechanical college, three normal schools, sevmical college, three normal schools, sev channal college, three normal schools, Sev-eral Indian schools, and a number of de-monliantional colleges. Institutions have already been provided for the deal-muten, the blind, and the insane, and the whole apparatus of civil government is in full operation, but it is not in the last resort self-government, because the higher offi-cers of the Territory and the judges are named by the President of the United States.

That the inhabitants are not unantmous in the opinion that Oklahoma should be immediately put into the column of States is mainly owing to the relation of the Territory to the old Indian Territory out of which it was carried, and to the at-titude of the Federal officials, who are active politicians and leaders of opinion, and who naturally want to keep their offices as long as possible. These officials make a good argument against admission out of the situation in the Indian Territory. Public opinion strongly favors the inclusion of the entire Indian Territory in the new State of Oklahoma. This would give a State as arge as Kansas, and one which would in short time become as populous. But the odian country cannot be taken into any state until new treaties are made with the tribes, and until the allotment of lands in severalty which is now going on progresses much further than it has done up to the present time. Oklahoma, as at present con-stituted, includes a number of small India; reservations, and it seems to be the face of the Territory, from its geographical posi-tion, to take in, as a State, the whole mass of semi-wavagery now existing in the old Indian Territory under treaties and tribal laws and customs. Congress would arobably not consent to the creation of a separate State out of what is left of the Indian Territory since the detachment of

BEGINNINGS OF WARS

Formal Declarations Not Customary in European Countries.

The State Department is not yet officially formed of the existence of war between Great Britain and the South African Republic. This notification may be expected to arrive first from the Transvaul, and it might come direct from the Government of that country through the American Consul-Charles Macrum. The mere notification of the existence of war. like the formal lectaration itself, seems to have little relaon to actual hostilities. Of the fast seventy-five European wars, only three were preceded by formal declarations. These declarations are often issued simply to fix a date for the beginning of hestilities, or, present boundaries, and to give to the new as in our Spanish war, which began on State the right to annex portions of the April 21, to legalize the taking of prizes. Indian Territory from time to time, by Sations begin war in most cases like an first securing the consent of Congress and angry boy, with little apparent consistency in their action. There is the same squaring off and blustering until a blow is struck, perhaps by accident, and then the conflict is on. It might be difficult for the ferences. Then came the resumption of correspondence but all the time each side was accumulating war material and preparing for war, which, so far as the official papers were concerned, did not seem a memore until weeks after the troops because the stracked by any form of the maker of the seem of the maker of the ma

This criticism is hardly worth noticing;
the United States did not seek the task, the United States did not seek the task, but was asked to undertake it by the British authorities. Few nations have ever declined to comply with such a request. It may be recalled that during the troubles in Bolivia the United States cared for British universate there. The identity of language is the principal range for this interchange of courtesies. Quincy and Williams.

(From the Philadelphia Ledger.)

The Philippino way, which has been uself-esing for some time in Manachusetts, has burd into a lively blace. The outbreak was crosed by an attempt to harmontae the Democratic party in that State. A harmony meeting was held in Boston at which George Fred Williams was the chief speaker, and Mayor Quincy was raised to suppress his expansion when for a fag or two, or at least, hold there is reserve while he occupied a place on the platform; but the mayor desired that he would not appear on the same platform with Mr. Williams, and the budding harmony died on the spot. The war is waging now.
